NAVIGATION AND PRINTING

The printed contents links to every office and election cycle. The PDF outline continues through state and individual district or statewide race. Race blocks run continuously instead of forcing one state or contest onto its own page. Every candidate record retained in the archive appears with party, votes, share, and incumbent status when available.

Special-election records remain winner-level when the underlying archive contains no complete candidate tally. A dash means unavailable, not zero. Provisional or uncalled contests are labeled and are not converted into certified outcomes.

Administration term: 1865-04-15 through 1869-03-04. Archive snapshot: 2026-11-09T14:39:54.906Z.

Administration Analysis

Johnson's election reference begins with the 1864 Lincoln-Johnson National Union ticket: Lincoln received 212 counted electoral votes to McClellan's 21, while eleven Confederate states did not participate. Johnson succeeded to the presidency after Lincoln's assassination. The 39th Congress opened with a 136-seat Republican House plurality plus nineteen Union or independent members, and a Senate containing twenty-three vacancies. The 1866-67 elections then produced a 173-seat Republican House and a 45-Republican Senate opening division, institutional totals that supplied the veto-override strength behind congressional Reconstruction and the chamber composition that later handled Johnson's impeachment and Senate trial.

SPECIAL-ELECTION REGISTER

The voting-seat House vacancy register contains seventeen records: seven in the 39th Congress and ten in the 40th. Three changed party columns. Readmission delegations are integrated with the 1866-67 cycle rather than duplicated as specials.

Federal Special-Election Winner Register

The register uses the official annotated rosters for the 39th and 40th Congresses as the control. Dates are the successor's formal installation or other controlled roster date. It includes only new voting-seat vacancy elections during Johnson's presidency, while excluding territorial delegates, ordinary readmission delegations already shown in the cycle ledger, and contest decisions that changed who was seated without a new election.

Methodology and Sources

METHOD. Regular contests are grouped by office, cycle, state, and district. Every candidate object in the archive is rendered. Vote and percentage fields are printed only when present. Presidential electoral allocations, special circumstances, certification status, incumbency flags, and prior-cycle comparisons are retained where available. The dense layout removes forced state page breaks but does not remove race data.

KNOWN LIMITS

- Andrew Johnson did not win a presidential election in his own right. He was elected vice president on Lincoln's 1864 National Union ticket, became president after Lincoln died on April 15, 1865, and served the remainder of the term.

- The official 1864 Electoral College count was Lincoln 212 to McClellan 21. Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia did not participate; Nevada cast two of its three allocated votes because one elector did not vote.

- The structured popular-vote source preserves a Tennessee return and therefore displays 2,240,639 votes for Lincoln and 1,811,068 for McClellan. Those source totals must not be converted into an extra ten electoral votes; the National Archives count controls.

- House elections were not held nationwide on one uniform date. The two cycle ledgers include delayed elections, Reconstruction readmission elections, a new-state election, and returns that did not produce a seated member.

- The 1864-65 source ledger contains 213 constituency cards. Twenty-one are returns from Alabama, North Carolina, and Virginia whose delegations were not seated in the 39th Congress. Nebraska's new at-large seat was filled at the end of that Congress through a return carried in the 1866-67 source cycle. The official House profile—not a raw card count—controls the 193-member chamber division.

- The 1866-67 ledger contains 200 structured source cards plus 27 official-roster readmission cards for Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, and South Carolina. The two Nebraska cards elect members to adjacent Congresses, so the 227 cards are not 227 simultaneous seats.

- The House reports 226 total Representatives for the 40th Congress but its election-day party categories add to 224: 47 Democrats, 173 Republicans, 2 Conservatives, 1 Conservative Republican, and 1 Independent Republican. The remaining two positions are preserved as vacant or unclassified rather than assigned to a party.

- Georgia's sixth district produced competing claims from John A. Wimpy and John H. Christy. The official roster records that neither was seated and the seat remained vacant; no winner is manufactured here.

- Both Senate cycles preceded the Seventeenth Amendment. Senators were generally chosen by state legislatures, so no direct-popular Senate race ledger is printed; the official Senate opening divisions are supplied in the administration-control table.

- Constituency vote totals and candidate lists are preserved from the structured source where available. Readmission cards and vacancy-election records remain winner-level when the official roster supplies no complete candidate tally; unavailable is not zero.

- Pure election-contest changes—such as Henry D. Washburn replacing Daniel W. Voorhees, William E. Dodge replacing James Brooks, William H. Koontz replacing Alexander H. Coffroth, and Columbus Delano replacing George W. Morgan—are not counted as special elections because no new popular election created the change.
