NAVIGATION AND PRINTING

The printed contents links to every office and election cycle. The PDF outline continues through state and individual district or statewide race. Race blocks run continuously instead of forcing one state or contest onto its own page. Every candidate record retained in the archive appears with party, votes, share, and incumbent status when available.

Special-election records remain winner-level when the underlying archive contains no complete candidate tally. A dash means unavailable, not zero. Provisional or uncalled contests are labeled and are not converted into certified outcomes.

Administration Analysis

Grant entered office after winning the 1868 electoral count 214 to 71, or 80 if Georgia's contested votes are included, with three former Confederate states still excluded and Florida choosing electors through its legislature. Republicans controlled both chambers. Grant's 1872 reelection was an electoral landslide, but the opposition realigned through a Liberal Republican-Democratic fusion and Horace Greeley's death forced an unprecedented post-election dispersal of electoral votes. The Panic of 1873 and Reconstruction backlash preceded the 1874 House reversal: Democrats moved from 88 seats in the 43rd House to 182 in the regular 44th House elections, while Republicans retained the Senate and presidency.

SPECIAL-ELECTION REGISTER

The voting-seat vacancy register contains fifty-five records across the 41st through 44th Congresses: sixteen, ten, thirteen, and sixteen respectively. Eleven changed major or third-party columns. It excludes territorial delegates and separates true new elections from contest decisions that merely changed who was seated.

Federal Special-Election Winner Register

The register uses the official annotated rosters for the 41st through 44th Congresses as the control. Dates are normally the successor's formal installation date; Robert B. Gilliam's election date is retained because he died before seating. The list includes James N. Tyner's pre-term vacancy election and Colorado's new state seat, while excluding territorial delegates and contest decisions that did not require a new election.

Presidential Results

State popular-vote returns use a single constituency-level structured ledger. The National Archives controls the official electoral outcomes: Grant 214 to Seymour 71, or 80 if Georgia's contested votes are included, in 1868; and Grant 286 of 352 counted votes in 1872.

Grant defeated Seymour in the popular ledger and held 214 electoral votes. The 41st House opened D 67 - R 171 - Conservative 5. The Senate opened R 56 - D 10 with eight vacancies still tied to Reconstruction readmission.

Methodology and Sources

METHOD. Regular contests are grouped by office, cycle, state, and district. Every candidate object in the archive is rendered. Vote and percentage fields are printed only when present. Presidential electoral allocations, special circumstances, certification status, incumbency flags, and prior-cycle comparisons are retained where available. The dense layout removes forced state page breaks but does not remove race data.

KNOWN LIMITS

- Georgia's nine 1868 electoral votes were disputed. Grant won regardless: the official compilation reports Seymour at 71 without Georgia and 80 if Georgia is included; Grant had 214.

- Mississippi, Texas, and Virginia did not participate in the 1868 presidential election because they had not yet been readmitted to congressional representation. Florida's legislature selected its electors without a statewide popular vote.

- Horace Greeley died after the 1872 popular election and before the Electoral College voted. His electors divided among Thomas A. Hendricks, Benjamin Gratz Brown, Charles J. Jenkins, and David Davis; Congress rejected three Georgia votes cast for Greeley.

- Arkansas and Louisiana failed certification in 1872, so fourteen appointed electoral votes were not counted. The 352-vote majority basis yields 286 for Grant, 42 for Hendricks, 18 for Brown, 2 for Jenkins, and 1 for Davis; three Georgia votes cast for Greeley were rejected rather than credited to a candidate.

- House elections were not yet held nationwide on one uniform date. The four cycle ledgers contain delayed state elections, readmission elections, at-large multi-seat contests, and a small number of overlapping-term returns; the official House profile controls the chamber totals.

- The 1868-69 and 1870-71 source ledgers each print 245 constituency return cards even though the official chamber division totals 243 voting seats. All source returns are retained; the official control line is not calculated by simply counting those cards.

- The 1872 cycle follows the post-census apportionment and includes multi-seat at-large elections in Alabama, Florida, Indiana, Kansas, Pennsylvania, and Texas. Candidate slates are repeated on each seat card so each elected seat remains separately searchable.

- The official 43rd House division is D 88 - R 199 - Liberal Republican 4 - Independent Democrat 1. The official 44th House profile later reached 293 after Colorado statehood; the regular 1874 election ledger shown here is D 182 - R 102 - Other 8 across 292 seats, with Colorado's Republican gain recorded in the special-election section.

- All four Senate cycles preceded the Seventeenth Amendment. Senators were generally selected by state legislatures, so no direct-popular Senate race ledger is printed; official Senate opening divisions are supplied in the administration-control table.

- Constituency candidate totals are preserved from the structured source. Official House profiles and annotated rosters control chamber classification when party labels, delayed seating, or successful contests would otherwise make the card count diverge from the institutional total.

- The special-election section is a winner register, not a claim of complete candidate-level returns. Vote totals are not estimated where the official roster does not provide them.
